RELEVANT EXPERIENCE

Mark Ianni is the Managing Partner of CXO Partners' Executive Operations and Revenue Growth group. He is frequently called on to support clients as an interim CEO, COO, and CRO. Mark specializes in driving business profitability and sustainable growth through strategic financial leadership and robust business coaching.

Mark's career is distinguished by his deep involvement in strategic planning, mergers and acquisitions, and capital-raising initiatives across a variety of industries, including energy, manufacturing, financial services, and telecommunications.

During his career, he has served as CEO of PE-backed Capital Building Maintenance, the leading provider of property management services in San Francisco. He also served as CEO/COO of an energy consulting company offering clients a better way to manage their energy spending through procurement, sustainability, and on-site electricity generation. Mark successfully sold the company to Private Equity for unprecedented multiple of EBITDA.

Mark also served as the President and CEO of ista North America, one of the largest private equity-held managed services, business process outsourcing, and software and technology providers for competitive energy companies in the United States and Canada.

As President of Gexa Energy, which is the retail division of Nextera Energy, a leading clean energy and Fortune 200 company, Mark successfully implemented the strategy for organic growth, attaining revenues of over a billion dollars and increasing profitability by 500%.

Before joining Nextera Energy, Mark spent over a decade at GE Capital in several leadership roles.
